Calling all budding scientists, fishing enthusiasts, and creek lovers!

Interested in the health of your neighborhood creek? The Anchorage Waterways Council is looking for folks to help figure out how urban development affects our local streams. Jump on in and look after the health of our creeks by monitoring water quality and stream-flow. Volunteers are needed on Ship Creek, Chester Creek at Arctic Blvd., Campbell Creek at Dimond Blvd., Rabbit Creek, and the North Fork of Campbell Creek. No experience is necessary, and training and equipment will be provided to anyone interested.

If you live near any of these areas and want to keep an eye on your own backyard creek, contact the Anchorage Waterways Council at 277-9287 for more information.
