

Artist Talk and Fish Creek Walk with Sheila Wyne
December 9 • 4 pm • Spenard 2nd Saturday and Writer's Block Book Fest – 3956 Spenard Road

Join artist Sheila Wyne for a 20-minute presentation at the Writer's Block to learn about her work in Anchorage, including "Scales" on the Fish Creek Trail. After the talk we will do a 1.5 mile walk to see a collection of art along the trail. We will return to the Artist Block for Book Fest.

Bring your winter shoes and headlamp to light up the trail!

Refreshments will be served. Sponsored in partnership with Anchorage Park Foundation, Spenard Community Council, NeighborWorks, Bookmobile & Fish Creek Friends

"Scales" on the Fish Creek Trail

The Fish Creek Trail bike tunnel under Spenard Road showcases new art by local artist Sheila Wyne. The mosaic art titled "Scales" is a 60-foot-long frieze made of decommissioned street signs. The wear and tear of these surfaces all have unique stories, like each experience on our unique trail system. The concept envisions a repeating pattern of salmon skin/scales with fluid, riffle lines hinting at the movement of water as it flows over the surface of the scales. The shimmering effects will be especially dramatic in winter months when head lamps illuminate it.
