Help name Anchorage's newest park!

Join us for a community discussion to help name Anchorage's newest park!

Anchorage's newest park is located at the southeast corner of Muldoon and Debar Rd. During the planning process, the name "Muldoon Town Square Park" was used as a placeholder until a more formal naming process could take place.

To guide the naming process, the Mayor and Assembly have appointed a naming committee to work with the community to choose a name for the park that considers the "historical, cultural, geographical significance considering location, and natural features".
